

Program Description

Hepatobiliary and pancreatic diseases, benign and malignant, are a complex spectrum of maladies, which require a comprehensive and a collaborative approach by a dedicated team of physicians and other health care professionals. The diagnoses are frequently challenging and plans for care require a multidisciplinary approach, as the treatment choices may be difficult. First of its kind at Downstate, the symposium will assemble a panel of experts in Radiology, Gastroenterology, Medical Oncology, Endocrinology, Hepatology and Surgery. Each series of presentations will be followed by a panel discussion, moderated by one of the expert faculty members.

Target Audience

The symposium is designed to share experts' views with an audience of:

- Primary Care Providers
- Family Practitioners and Internists
- Gastroenterologists
- Medical and Surgical Oncologists
- Surgeons

Objectives

Upon completion of this educational activity participants should be able to have a clear understanding on:

- Surgical and Medical Oncological principles on treatment of Pancreatic Cancer.
- Role of EUS and ERCP in treatment of pancreatic diseases.
- Surgical treatment options for Chronic Pancreatitis.
- Current therapies for Hepatitis and Hepatocellular Cancer.
- The role of Endoscopy in Biliary Obstruction.
- Emerging role of Interventional Radiology in Hepatobiliary Cancer
- Current surgical options for Hepatobiliary Cancer.
